DOMAIN-NAME DISPUTE RESOLUTION

16 February 2011
9:00 – 12:30

Albert Hotel
Dzirnavu Street 33
Riga

In recent years, the holders of intellectual property rights have been facing a specific form of rights infringement - unauthorized domain name registration.

In fighting these wrongful acts the traditional legal instruments could not always provide an efficient solution, particularly where a cross-border dispute was in question, which caused the creation and development of alternative dispute resolution systems. Quick, efficient and costs-saving, these procedures continue to serve as yet unmatched means of protecting intellectual property rights in domain name matters, while they still give fair trial guarantees to all parties of the dispute.

The seminar focuses on alternative dispute resolution procedures in .eu (ADR) and in generic top level domain names (UDRP - .com, .org, .net and many others) as well as on dispute resolution related to .lv domain names.
